The court of Nevinnomyssk sentenced 26-year-old resident of the city for six months suspended sentence for false accusation of rape. About it reports "Komsomolskaya Pravda in Stavropol".

According to the newspaper, the woman lied to his friend because of jealousy. On January 26 she went to the police with a statement about the rape. In order to be more convincing, she tore off his clothes and inflicted some injury, the nature of which is not specified.

After several examinations it turned out that the woman slandered a friend. She admitted it and explained that he did it because he was jealous man to the other girls.

Earlier, the Chairman of the Investigative Committee of Russia Alexander Bastrykin reported the surge of domestic violence. According to him, the reason for the offences was decriminalized domestic battering in the past year.
