SANTA ANA – Police officials are looking for a man who sexually assaulted a woman while she was walking by herself around 8 p.m. Saturday in the 18000 block of Ervin Street, according to Lt. Roland Chacon of the Orange County Sheriff's Department.

The man – described as a 20-25 years old, 5 feet, 11 inches tall, wearing in a dark hoodie and dark pants – grabbed the 30-year-old woman from behind and dragged her several yards to a vacant dirt lot, Chacon said.

The man said, "What were you talking about?" to the woman as he removed her sweater and cut her shirt with a knife before she kicked the suspect and ran away, Chacon said.

The woman said her attacker had another individual with him, whom she identified as also wearing a dark hoodie.

She suffered minor scratches.

Police are asking anyone with information to call 714-647-7000 or visit occrimestoppers.org.
